NO IMMUNITY FOR PERKINS

Government So Informs Financier
In Harvester Suit.

FIRST WITNESS FOR DEFENSE

Partner of the Late Pierpont Morgan Tells of Organizing the Trust, Declaring None of the McCormicks Had Anything to Do With It—Complains of Treatment at the Hands of the Government.

Chicago, June 20.—When George W. Perkins, former partner of the late J. P. Morgan, took the witness stand in the International Harvester company's anti-trust hearing, he was warned by Attorney Grosvenor, representing the government, that conditions under which he testified did not give him immunity from possible prosecution.

"You have been subpoenaed by Edgar A. Bancroft of the International Harvester company," said Attorney Grosvenor. "Both are defendants in this suit. Out of 1,200 witnesses you are the first to be subpoenaed. In view of this state of affairs I wish to inform you that your testimony here does not give you immunity from any further prosecutions."

"In reply, I will say that I was very much surprised that I was not subpoenaed by the government of its own volition," said Mr. Perkins.

"But you recognize that your testimony here is of your own volition and entitles you to no immunity," persisted the government lawyer.

"I recognize that the government has been very discourteous to me thus far," responded the witness warmly, and Attorney McHugh of the defense began direct examination.

Asked who arranged the Milwaukee harvester purchase, he replied: "Mr. Morgan was back of the purchase and he alone. Neither Mr. Cyrus McCormick nor any of the McCormicks had anything to do with it, except to advance as a temporary loan to Mr. Morgan the $100,000 which was used in the purchase of the option on the sale of the company."

As to foreign sales, Mr. Perkins said:

"I was dealing in big things in New York and I did not believe that the going into foreign fields with the McCormick concern alone was a big enough proposition to be worth my while. It was then that the idea of getting all the harvester companies together came to me. I went among the different large companies and my plan for a consolidation in the matter of foreign selling was enthusiastically received."

"Who named the International Harvester company?"

"I did."

"There was provision for three voting trustees. Why was that made?"

"To make certain I could carry out the plan of the things I had in mind. The directors were chosen by myself with the same end in view."

"Please state the basis on which the International Harvester company was organized."

"It was strictly on a cash basis. There was no watered stock. Everything was dollar for dollar on actual values. There was no syndicate in connection with the organization."

ELECTRIC TRAINS IN CRASH

Fourteen Persons Killed and More Than Thirty Injured.

Vallejo, Cal., June 20.—A confusion of orders brought death to 14 persons when two electric trains met head-on near Vallejo, while running at high speed.

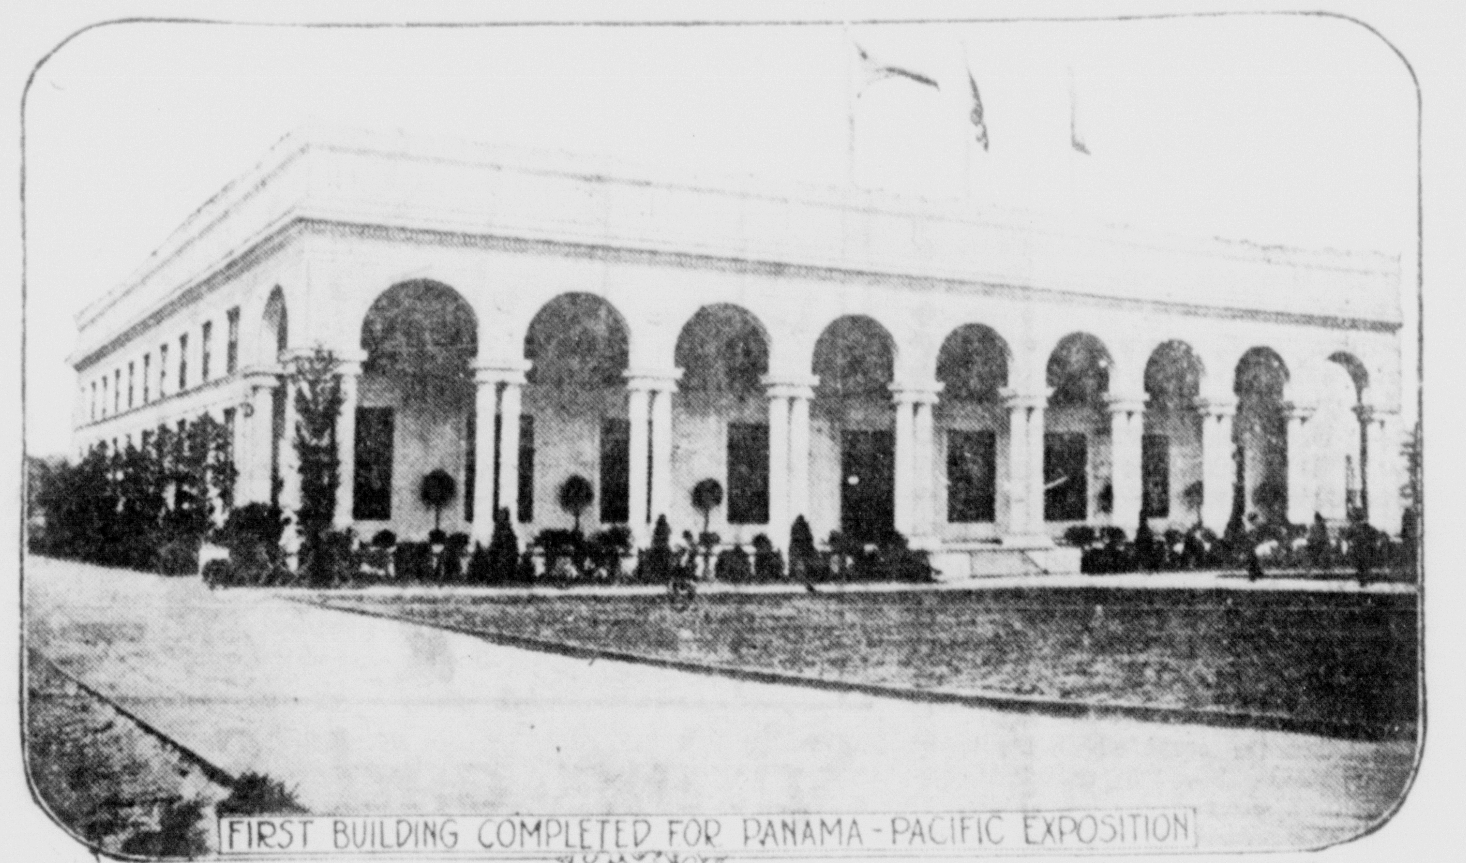

Eleven persons were instantly killed, three died within a short time and three of the 30 or more injured are perhaps fatally hurt.

The conductor of one of the trains, who took orders by telephone from the train dispatcher just before the accident, is among those probably fatally injured.

Nearly all of the killed and injured were residents of Vallejo and vicinity.

SERVICE BUILDING, FIRST COMPLETED STRUCTURE AT PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

San Francisco, June 20.—This picture shows the Service building, the first of the structures to be finished at the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco. Although of small size when compared to the huge exhibit palaces, it is an imposing edifice. The building is the headquarters of the construction and architectural departments. All the main exhibit palaces—there will be fourteen—will be under construction within a few months and will be completed in July, 1914. As soon as the buildings are finished an army of landscape gardeners and workmen will begin setting out upon the grounds and in the courts millions of trees, flowers, palms and rare shrubs.

CRUSADE WAS NATION WIDE

Testifies the Present Secretary of the Navy Said He Would Get Into Circulation a Million Copies of Anti-Sugar Protectionists' Side in Pamphlet Form—Sales Agent Lowry's Story.

Washington, June 20.—The senate committee in pursuit of the lobby turned over a new leaf in the story of sugar and heard the details of a long continued campaign the advocates of free sugar made to remove the duty on that article.

Frank C. Lowry, sales agent of the Federal Sugar Refining company, secretary and organizer of the "committee of wholesale grocers," wrote the free sugar chapter for the committee, while Senator Cummins acted as guide through the smoke of the battle of arguments and Senators Nelson and Walsh lent assistance when the issues seemed to become obscured.

Lowry told of his attempts to accelerate public opinion and to persuade congressmen and senators and spoke frankly of his efforts in the national campaign of last fall. He said he furnished most of the sugar information which appeared in the Democratic textbook; that he prepared data on free sugar for a Democratic campaign document which the present secretary of the navy, Mr. Daniels, said would get into circulation of 1,000,000 in pamphlet form, and that he had wired every member of the resolutions committee at the Baltimore convention to put a free sugar plank in the Democratic platform.

Lowry testified that he had conducted his fight solely for the Federal company, and that other refiners had not figured in it. He thought the expenses had amounted to about $25,000 in four years, exclusive of his salary and commission as sales agent, amounting to about $68,000 in that period. He got nothing for his tariff work, he said.

After many questions by Senator Cummins the witness agreed that although all the sugar refiners did not seem to favor free sugar, they would benefit only in a less degree than the Federal by a reduction in duty. Lowry said, however, that an official of the American Sugar Refining company,

Senator Works Would Wipe Out
Distilled Alcoholic Liquors.

Washington, June 20.—On the theory that the alarming increase in the use of strong drink threatens the health of the nation, aside from working enormous hereditary ills, Senator Works of California announced the preparation of a proposed constitutional amendment wiping out the manufacture, production and sale of distilled alcoholic liquors in the United States.

The bill, which would not prohibit the manufacture of beer and wines, will be introduced in the senate tomorrow. Works declared that his measure was framed on the advice of Professor R. S. Benson, a Portland, Ore., philanthropist and expert on the subject of alcohol and its influences.

Panama Railroad To Be Maintained After Canal Is Open.

Washington, June 20.—A meeting of the board of directors of the Panama railroad was held in the office of Secretary of War Garrison. The general question under discussion was the management and operation of the road across the isthmus after the canal has been opened. It was decided that all decisions as to detail of operation under the changed conditions would be deferred until the changes have occurred. It is intended, however, that the railroad shall continue to be operated and maintained at a high state of efficiency after the canal is open. It is regarded as of prime military importance that the road be kept up in every way.

New York, June 20.—An agreement by which the threatened strike of the telegraphers on the Erie railroad was averted, was reported after conferences lasting for several weeks between the conference committee of the telegraphers and the officials of the company over the demands of the former for higher wages. The agreement is retroactive to May 1 of this year, and the representatives of the telegraphers said that the new scale means an average increase of 6 per cent to the telegraphers as a whole throughout the system.

Reports Current That Several

CYCLONE CAUSED GREAT HAVOC

Many Buildings, Including the State Capitol, Wrecked in Tallahassee. Which Was Hard Hit by the Storm. Canning Plants Devastated, Crops Destroyed and Much Live Stock Killed.

Tallahassee, Fla., June 20.—Twenty persons lost their lives in and near Tallahassee as a result of the cyclone which swept this section. Perhaps a hundred are injured, of whom a few will die.

The damage near Tallahassee, however, will pale into insignificance if rumors from the coast are borne out. According to reports, several hundred persons were drowned on the Florida keys. Messages telling of this death toll come from fishermen and others on the mainland. It is stated that a terrific swell passed over the low marsh grass islands, and a considerable amount of wreckage has floated to the coast. The inhabitants of the keys are a mixed breed, largely Spanish, and a cross breed between the West Indian natives and the poorer whites who settled that section more than a century ago.

Most of the houses are built upon piles, the level of the islands being only a foot or so above the normal height of the sea. A few shrimp and fish canning plants are included in the section said to have been devastated, but as a general thing the residents are of the poorest class. The state will order relief boats to search the keys.

In Tallahassee the storm caused an immense amount of damage. The stately old capitol, with its roof gone and walls gaping apart, is little more than a wreck. Nearly every store in the city suffered, goods in some cases being rendered practically worthless. Numerous dwellings were wrecked or damaged badly, and in several cases fire added to the destruction. Numerous houses of the poorer class were carried from their foundations, a fact that contributes to the fear that the casualty list may be larger than first suspected.

Crops in the vicinity also suffered heavily, cotton practically is ruined, and many of the farms are mere waste places. Much live stock perished.

THE EX-BOSS COX TRIAL ON

Prosecutor Pogue Alleges Trust Money Was Misapplied.

Cincinnati, O., June 20.—The story of the financial relations of the former political leader, George B. Cox, Cincinnati Trust company and George P. Cox's Ford & Johnson Chair company was told by Prosecutor Pogue in his opening statement to the jury trying Cox on the charge of having misapplied sums aggregating $115,000 through loans made to his Ford & Johnson company.

Pogue said: "We will show that of the $115,000 which we charge was misapplied in loans made by the Cincinnati Trust company to the Ford & Johnson company, only about $4,500 was ever paid back."

Although the present trial deals only with loans aggregating $115,000, it has been repeatedly shown through investigation by grand juries and in other trials that loans amounting to a million dollars had been made by the trust company to the chair company.

"Boys" From That Splendid Township Turned Out and Made Fine Showing in Parade Thursday.

HON. H. M. DAUGHERTY SPOKE FOR LADIES OF THE G. A. R.

Winners of Handsome Silk Flag Are Proud of Their Trophy and the Success of Their Efforts to Make the Best Showing.

Jefferson township won the beautiful flag offered by the Washington Circle No. 25, Ladies of the G. A. R., for the township having the largest number of veterans in line in the parade, and the presentation occurred on the court house lawn immediately after the parade. Hon. H. M. Daugherty presenting the flag in an eloquent address, and Capt. G. M. Eichelberger, of Jeffersonville, responding to the presentation speech in a neat speech of appreciation.

Hon. H. M. Daugherty.

Jefferson township, which has attracted so much attention in doing things within the past few years, had 41 comrades in line and easily carried off the handsome present. Much success for carrying off the honor is due to Capt. G. M. Eichelberger, who had communicated with every veteran of the township and urged them to attend.

The Imperial band and Price's band united in furnishing music during the presentation ceremonies. The handsome flag is greatly prized by the Jefferson township veterans.

Hon. H. M. Daugherty, on behalf of the Ladies of the G. A. R., presented the flag which that organization offered as a trophy for the largest township representation.

Mr. Daugherty's speech was characteristically forceful and was received with that marked enthusiasm which is the highest compliment the orator can receive.

Mr. Daugherty said:

"On behalf of Washington Circle, No. 25, Ladies of the G. A. R., and by their courtesy, I have been invited to present this trophy of many victories to you who have won it in a friendly contest, with your comrades and neighbors. I thank the ladies for the compliment and courtesy involved in extending to me this invitation, and I congratulate you upon having won the property, notwithstanding the fact that those who contested for it today have in it only a proportionate interest, for it belongs to all the people who love it and are willing to know and appreciate what it represents.

I congratulate you all, members of the G. A. R., that so many of you have survived the years since the great struggle, and I can assure you that you have the gratitude of every man worthy of being an American citizen.

"I sometimes wonder though, as the years go by, whether we think as much of this flag and the protection it affords, and of our country with all its blessings and opportunities, as did those who preceded us in the nation's development. I some-

FAYETTE GETS HOG CHOLERA EXPERIMENTAL

Fayette county will be the county in which the work of wiping out the hog cholera in Ohio will start. This was decided at a meeting of the State Board of Agriculture held Thursday night and attended by Jesse F. Cross and Hon. C. A. Reid, who used every effort to secure the coveted experimental fund.

Several ballots were required as Preble and Van Wert counties were also desirous of obtaining the $20,000 with which to stamp out the disease which has been causing the death of tens of thousands of swine and a loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the farmers.

The action of the State Board of Agriculture is the result of the petitions recently circulated throughout the city and county, asking that the experiment fund be used in Fayette county in eliminating the disease by the serum and virus treatment, and the actual work will commence some time this summer, when a force of officials will have the work in hand and will probably give attention to every herd of swine in the county, immunizing them and thus eliminating the cholera.

Full plans for the work will be announced later when the department is ready to begin the work.

The news of the success of the petitions will be most welcome to the thousands of Fayette county farmers who have been heavy losers through the plague that has thinned their herds of swine.

Much credit for the success of the movement is due to Mr. Jesse F. Cross, local member of the State Board of Agriculture, who devoted considerable time to the work. Hon. C. A. Reid made a masterly argument before the board as to why the appropriation should come to this county, and his words had not a little weight in deciding the question.

Fayette county has long been one of the worst swine pests spots in the state, and the losses during the past score of years would reach into the millions of dollars.

It will be interesting at this time to know that the National Government has launched a movement to eradicate the plague, as the following dispatch from Washington, D. C., will indicate:

"Convinced in the face of the increased cost of living that something must be done to save the hog as a food animal, experts of the department of agriculture announced yesterday that they would begin a campaign July 1 to eradicate hog cholera. On that date the $75,000 appropriated by the last congress for the work will become available. The losses in hogs which succumbed to cholera last year were $60,000,000 according to the department's figures. This is so obvious an unnecessary waste, in the experts' opinion that they propose to go into the work with the end in view of stamping out the disease altogether."

Continuing the Work

In a special train provided by the Hungarian government, the American Commission on Agriculture Co-operation came to Budapest, the principal Hungarian sea port.

The report forwarded shows that the agriculture of Hungary lacks the extreme intensiveness which was so marked in Italy, probably because of insufficient labor. Rural Hungary more closely resembles rural America than any other country of Europe.

In years past Hungary, like the United States, resorted to foreign immigration to increase her population. But wars and the too rapid increase of foreign peoples prevented any assimilation and today in Hungary there are many peoples, all clinging to their languages and fighting against race extinction. In every attempt made to further the agricultural interests of the country these conditions had to be taken into consideration. The big estates owned by the nobility complicated matters. The serfs were given their freedom just at the time when the landed nobility was financially in the worst condition.

But despite these handicaps the Hungarian government has constructed a system of agricultural credit both for mortgage loans and for short time credit needs of the farmers which has proven of the greatest value. Government aid has played an important part in the work.

The mortgage credit institutions of Hungary are neither purely co-operative nor strictly private. The oldest and most important mortgage bank of Hungary is the Hungarian Land Mortgage Institute, founded in 1863. The government contributed $200,000 of the capital stock of the company and the balance was subscribed by "founders" who, however, were only required to pay in 10 per cent of the amount of the stock for which they subscribed. These founders receive a dividend limited to 5 per cent of their subscriptions. Besides the founders, every land owner who placed a mortgage with the bank is a member of the bank. Only mortgagors who have a mortgage indebtedness to the bank of at least $20,000 have any personal voice in the affairs of the bank. The other members may elect representatives to the general meeting. Of course as soon as a farmers' mortgage expires his membership in the bank ends.

The Commission is making an exhaustive investigation of conditions in the farming districts of Europe and is gathering a great deal of information for the purposes of comparison in order to determine whether a government loan department for the agricultural districts in this country is practical.

The study of conditions in European countries is interesting and instructive to the Commission and the reports are valuable to the government officials and to the people in this land.

At first it would seem that conditions are so different that comparisons of effect would be useless. The Commission hopes, however, at the conclusion of its labors to be able to make some recommendations based on the comparisons which will be helpful.

Votes For Women as Necessary as the Broom

By Mrs. HELEN KING ROBINSON,
State Senator, of Colorado

A VOTE IS AS NECESSARY TO THE CLEANLINESS OF MY HOME AS A BROOM. A HOME CANNOT POSSIBLY BE CLEAN WITHOUT A VOTE.

We may get the vote throughout the nation if we exert what some men call our sweet womanly influence—that is, if we dance as did Salome for the head of a man. In other words, we will FLIRT OURSELVES INTO THE VOTE.

Antis seem to be entirely in the east, and since I have met a few I have been told so many plain and fancy lies about suffrage for women that I feel I must refute them.

They say women with votes neglect their homes. I do. I neglect my home about TWENTY MINUTES EACH YEAR while I go around the corner to vote. Once I neglected it half an hour while I copied the recipe for tomato soup from a neighbor I met at the polls. That was a most romantic tomato soup I served next day.

Do the women of nonvoting states spend more than twenty minutes each year away from home playing bridge? I wonder.

They say women want all the offices. Well, the men will also retain the vote, and I don't know that it would do much harm to have a MUNICIPAL HOUSEWIFE AT THE HEAD OF CITY GOVERNMENT.

Remember, that what America wants today is a spiritual sidelight on municipal and national offices, and the men, clever as they are, CANNOT FURNISH IT.

Poetry For Today

BANK OF THE READY SMILE.

There's a bank whose issue is good wherever
The sun in radiance reigns;
Whose payments, be sure, are suspended never,
Whose strength no panic strains.
A steadfast reliance, this stronghold of treasure,
Worth any golden while,
It lends of its wealth without stint,
without measure—
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

Why borrow where all that's to loan is trouble?
Why discount days in despair?
Why let your grief draw interest and double?

At usury rates unfair?
Let not the evil more evil be earning,
Under despondency's guise—
Keep books with the house of the cheerful returning.
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

If to protest your promises seem to be going,
Don't push them along;
Seek the security sure to be showing
Where courage is strong.

Vanishing balances may be but seeming—
Fruit of discouragement's wife—
Cash in your gloom, they'll change
it to beaming—
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

Dollars may be of the sorriest vintage,
Squeezed from grapes of toil,
Dollars piled fresh from the gambler's mintage
Still may burn and soil.

Wealth that hope from its deep heart offers,
And nothing may defile,
Blesses in grateful, glowing coffee
The Bank of the Ready Smile.

MUNDY SURRENDERS

Cincinnati Attorney Says Shooting of Wife Was an Accident.

On June 19, June 20—Charging that the shooting of his wife was an accident, as he had intended the shots to end his own life and not that of his wife, George Mundy, an attorney of this city, surrendered to the local police. The shooting took place last Saturday and Mrs. Mundy died two days later. Since that time all trace of Mundy had been lost. In explaining why he ran away after the shooting, Mundy said it was the fear of being given the "third degree" by the police. He said that when his wife refused to live with him he placed his revolver to his head and was about to pull the trigger, when his wife grabbed it, and in the fight for the possession of the gun he heard two shots and saw the blood coming from his wife's breast.

The Splendid Trophy Flag Won by Jefferson Township

times wonder if, notwithstanding the increased incentive, there is so much love, self-sacrifice, and unselfishness in the world as formerly. I know observers will agree with me that there are those who did not study government and its purpose, who do not appreciate a constitution constructed in the spirit in which our forefathers constructed ours or appreciate the unbound liberty and unlimited opportunities of an American citizen.

"As I read latter day criticisms of this or that great man, of this law or that law, of our constitution, and consider late and proposed amendments to it, I doubt if we could turn our attention to a better purpose than to educate the youth of today on the lines our forefathers were educated, who knew the price paid for liberty, the cost of constructing and preserving our constitution, and the sacrifice required to install a government such as ours.

"I have not the words at my command—few men have—to give to an audience expressions such as were given by the great men who organized this government and kept it in the succeeding years in the path of safety, that it might be the workshop of future generations and the model in government of the civilized world. "Remember, the flag is the emblem of this whole free people. The flag and the constitution must stand together, and with them the people must stand, or a government constructed as is ours must crumble and perish in failure.

"I wonder sometimes if there is as much patriotism on the average among American citizens as there was formerly; if we are not giving our attention to other things calculated more to amuse or temporarily please rather than to substantially benefit us. You seldom hear of the beautiful apostrophes to the American flag that were uttered in the years gone by. It is easy enough in time of war to stir the people to the highest point of patriotism, but in times of peace, and especially during long periods of peace, patriotism may wane, and yet, in peace or in war, patriotism on the part of the people is absolutely essential to constitute temperamentally our best citizenship. It will do you good if you will listen to, as I know you will, and remember, as I know you must, the utterance of Senator Geo. F. Hoar, of Massachusetts, in 1888, on the American flag. He said:

"I have seen the glories of art and architecture, and of mountain and river. I have seen the sun rise on Jungfrau, and the full moon rise over Mount Blanc, but the fairest vision on which these eyes ever looked was the flag of my country in a foreign land. Beautiful as a flower to those who love it, terrible as a meteor to those who hate it, it is the symbol of seventy millions of Americans."

"And as Mr. Melancthon Woolsey Stryker, president of Hamilton College, New York, sang:

"Roll a river wide and strong,
Like the tides a-swinging,
Lift the joyful floods of song,
Set the mountains ringing
Run the lovely banner high,
Crimson morning glory!
Field as blue as yonder sky,
Every star a story.

By the colors of the day,
By the breasts that wear them,
To the living God we pray,
That the brave may bear them!
Run the rippling banner high,
Peace or war the weather,
Cheers or tears, we'll live or die
Under it together.

In 1865, President Lincoln designated Henry Ward Beecher to deliver an oration at Fort Sumpter on the reholisting of the flag by General Anderson. Mr. Beecher then pronounced the beautiful apostrophe of which this is a part:

"Hail to the flag of our fathers, and our flag! Glory to the banner that has gone through four years black with the tempests of war, to pilot the nation back to peace without dismemberment!"

When our flag came down, four years ago, it lay brooding in darkness. When it went down four million people had no flag. And today it rises, and four million people cry out, "Behold our flag!" It is the gospel that they recite in sacred words: "It is the gospel of the poor, it heals our broken hearts, it preaches deliverance to the captives, it gives sight to the blind, it sets at liberty them that are bruised." Rise up, then, glorious gospel banner, and roll out these messages of God. Tell the air that not a spot now sullies thy whiteness. Thy red is not the blush of shame, but the flush of joy. Tell the dew that wash thee that thou art as pure as they. Say to the night that thy stars lead towards the morning; and to the morning, that a brighter day arises with healing in its wing. And then, O glorious flag, bid the sun pour light on all thy folds with double brightness while thou art bearing around the world the solemn joy—a race set free, a Nation redeemed!"

Robert C. Winthrop, of Massachusetts, probably,—at any rate in my judgment—reached the maximum of inspiring eloquence and truth when he delivered this beautiful oration on the flag:

"The National ensign, pure and simple, dearer to our hearts at this moment, as we lift it to the gale and see no other sign of hope upon the storm cloud that rolls and settles above it, save that which is reflected from its own radiant hues. It speaks for itself far more eloquently than I can speak for it. Every star has a tongue. Every stripe is articulate. There is no language or speech where their voices are not.

It has an answer for every question. It has a solution for every doubt and every perplexity. It has a word of good cheer for every hour of gloom or despondency. It speaks of earlier and later struggles. It speaks of heroes and patriots among the living and among the dead. But before all and above all other associations and memories, whether of glorious men or glorious deeds, or glorious plans, its voice is ever of union and liberty, of the Constitution and laws. Let it tell the story of its birth to these gallant volunteers as they march beneath its folds by day, or repose beneath its sentinel stars by night. Let it recall to them the strange, eventful history of its rise and progress. Let it rehearse to them the wondrous tale of its trials and its triumphs in peace as well as in war."

I have seen fit to take advantage of this opportunity—as I was no doubt expected to—to inspire in you and my countrymen as much as I can, an appreciation and a revival of affection for this flag and this country, respect for our laws and our constitution, in the hope that more time in the future, and I warn you it is necessary, may be given by us in teaching the younger generation the responsibility and benefits of a government such as ours, and the necessity of men and women in all walks of life taking an interest and participating in the settlement of questions on the right side of government.

"I have no fear that this flag or this country will ever again be assailed by any foreign power. Modern and moral diplomacy, and Christian and civilized citizenship give ample assurance of security from all such dangers.

"Our danger lies at home. Our enemies are those who, while enjoying the greatest blessings and protection, freedom and liberty, that flag, Constitution or any country can bestow upon the citizen, are with loud mouths and offensive speech constantly agitating envy, jealousy and hatred between what they define to be the different classes among our citizens.

"In this free land, in this prosperous land, in this, the fairest land the Creator of the Universe has given to any people; in this country baptized in the blood of our countrymen, in the name of freedom, these meddlesome mouthers, often in the respectable name of labor, would lead well-meaning men to hate the land and country which give them opportunity, and drew their affections and respect away from the country wherein this flag is an inspiring emblem to the support of another flag, a red flag, the flag of Socialism, which is their infirm emblem.

There can be no charge made that I am making a political speech, but for fear some person, purposely misunderstanding me, may say so, I take the liberty and responsibility of saying that many too ambitious and too little deserving men in all parties old as well as new, are largely responsible for the growth of Socialism in this country, no matter how much they may disclaim it or how they may pretend to deny it.

"In this connection allow me to read, if you please, the warning and inspiring utterance of President Lincoln years ago, when he said:

"The field of glory has been harvested. But new reapers will arise. History tells us that new men of ambition and talents will continue to spring up who will naturally seek the gratification of their ruling passions, as others have done before. Their ambition cannot be gratified by supporting and maintaining an edifice erected by others. Towering genius disdains a beaten path; it seeks regions hitherto unexplored. It sees no distinction in adding story to story upon the monuments of others. It denies that it is glory enough to serve any chief. It scorns to tread in the footsteps of any predecessor, however illustrious. It thirsts and burns for distinction; and, if possible, it will have it, whether at the expense of emancipating slaves or enslaving free men. It is reasonable to expect that some men, possessed of the loftiest genius, coupled with ambition sufficient to push it to its utmost stretch, will at some time spring up among us. And when such an one does, it will require the people to be united with each other, attached to the government and laws, and generally intelligent, to successfully frustrate his designs.

"Destruction will be his paramount object, and although he would as willingly, perhaps more so, acquire it by doing good as harm, yet the opportunity (for good) being past, and nothing left to be done in the way of building up, he would set boldly to the task of pulling down. Here then is the probable cause, highly dangerous, and such an one as could not have existed before."

"Our forefathers, whose wisdom and foresight were until a few years ago, and still are except where they are questioned in this country, the marvel of the civilized world, sacrificed office for the sake of principle. Now too often and too many men sacrifice principle for the sake of office.

These things never can be corrected and this professional agitation never can be stopped by any particular political party, but it must and will be put an end to by the intelligent citizenship and voters of all political parties and citizens of all so-called classes, sexes and colors, uniting not for party advantage, but for a common prosperity and the security of all the people.

In this country there are no laws, written or unwritten, privileges, possessions or rights which are given to one class and denied any other class. In fact, there is no such thing as class under our form of government or before the law.

"Varying and vanishing fortunes depend upon energy, economy and merit. The son of the rich man of yesterday may be, and often is, the poor father of several sons today. But all of the boys of tomorrow, sons of rich and sons of poor, under our flag, Constitution and laws, will have the same opportunities.

"We have had warnings before, when conditions similar to these, but in a more limited degree, confronted the people of this country. Seventy-four years ago Daniel Webster, standing in the United States Senate, gave utterance to this truthful speech:

"Such is the state of things actually existing in the country, and of which I have now given you a sample. And yet there are persons who constantly clamor against this state of things. They call it aristocracy. They excite the poor to make war upon the rich, when in truth they know not who are either rich or poor. They complain of oppression, speculation, and the pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations, and all the means by which small capitals become united, in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on amid hostility against all established institutions. They would choke up all the fountains of industry and dry up all its streams. In a country of unbounded liberty they clamor against oppression. In a country of perfect equality they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more equally divided than anywhere else, they rend the air with the shouting of agrarian doctrines. In a country where the wages of labor are high beyond all parallel, they would teach the laborer that he is but an oppressed slave. Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing, sir, but to enjoy the results of another man's labor. They can mean nothing but disturbance and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society. A licentiousness of feeling and action is sometimes produced by prosperity itself. Men cannot always resist the temptation to which they are exposed by the very abundance of the bounties of Providence and the very happiness of their own condition; as the steed full of the pasture will sometimes throw himself against its inclosure, break away from its confinement, and, feeling now free from needless restraint, betake himself to the moors and barrens where want, ere long, brings him to his senses, and starvation and death close his career."

I am today only sounding a warning. I think this an appropriate time and place to do so. Here, where the air is surcharged with patriotism and love of comrade, countrymen and country; here in this community, at the hands of whose citizens I have been the recipient of a thousand kindnesses, confidences and courtesies; here where I first learned what love of neighbor and country was; here where I was born; here where my ashes will finally rest; here in the presence of these battle-scarred veterans of the Republic, that I may do them a greater honor. If I am right, let us, with love in our hearts and gratitude in our souls, resolve to bear this flag in the atmosphere in which our fathers unfurled it and you preserved it, and down with the demagogue and down with Socialism!

"I am not warning or calling for assistance from men of any particular political party, for there is no partisanship in this proposition—it is purely a matter of patriotism.

In destroying Socialism, which is the fore-runner of anarchy, in accomplishing the downfall of the demagogue and in preserving the laws, the Constitution and the rights of American citizens, it must be done under only one flag, and that flag the American flag. And in doing this you will be supported by your past enemies who are now your comrades in the sunny land of Dixie, and by your countrymen everywhere, from the vine-clad hills of Maine to where the sun's rays linger but to kiss the Golden Gate of California.

"The farther we get away from what this flag means the nearer we get to supporting what some other flag means. And remember, in the words of Frank M. Bristol, uttered at Chicago, Ill., in 1896:

"The flag is an emblem of the reign of law. It stands for law-protected freedom, law-protected labor, law-protected wealth, law-protected prosperity, and law-protected happiness. Liberty without law is a dream; it is license; it is barbarism. The flag is an emblem of peace. Wherever it floats it heralds a day when swords shall be beaten into pruning hooks, and the universal brotherhood of man shall become a fulfilled condition."

Now, in conclusion, it is necessary for us to wake up, and when the people of this country once wake up, as they will and must, for their own protection, these later-day would-be statesmen now enjoying their dream of fluffy-ruffle statesmanship, will themselves wake up, and Socialism and its attendant evils will be things of the past, and patriotism and sane American citizenship will be the things of the future. I think the contest will be won by peaceful means, but it will be won, and to win it, if necessary, we will—"Rally round the flag boys, Rally once again—Shouting the battle-cry of freedom!"

SPLENDID CONCERT THOROUGHLY ENJOYED

The open air concert given on the court house lawn by Price's Premier band Thursday evening was one that pleased the vast throng which assembled on the lawn and covered the streets, and the splendid corps of musicians were encored time after time, and graciously responded each time until the program given was one of the most complete and pleasing ever given in the city.

It was a real treat for the assembled thousands, and the band boys were apparently inspired by the ovation tendered them, and played as they had never before played, and when they were worn out with the continued work, the crowd was still reluctant to let them go without "more of the same."

Plans had been made to hold the eight o'clock train at this point in order that the concert could be given, but the train repeated one of its old tricks and arrived here in the wee sma' hours of Friday morning.

LOCAL BALL TEAM STUNG AGAIN

Scattering Their Hits and Bunching Their Errors is the Cause of the Game Going to the Visitors.

PASSMORE HITS SPLENDIDLY AND NOON FOLLOWS SUIT.

Rest of the Team Played Like It Was a Tennis Match on Boards Instead of a Ball Game.

Yesterday afternoon the local ball team was defeated by a score of 4 to 2 by the Columbus Athletics.

The local team seems, judging by the regularity of its losing, to be suffering from the same trouble with which Joe Tinker's Cincinnati Reds are afflicted, viz., inability to bunch their hits and an inclination to flock their errors.

Noon and Passmore both delivered the goods with the willow club in Thursday's game, but the remainder of the team couldn't connect with the pellet.

Reno pitched well, but not quite well enough. The Athletics didn't make any more errors than the visitors made, but they chose the worst time possible to do their fozzling act. It was really a pretty good game except for the fact that our boys had the short end of the score.

The game scheduled for today between the same teams has been cancelled because of the inability of some of the visiting team to take part. Some of the local players too are absent on business missions.

Sunday the champions of the Columbus City League will be here for one game at 2:30 p. m.

LAST CAMP FIRE OF SERIES HELD

The closing camp fire of the G. A. R. was held at Grace church Thursday night, and largely attended.

The program opened by Comrade Hank singing "The Little Brown Button," after which "Marching Through Georgia" was sung by everyone.

Past Department Commander J. R. Johnston presided over the meeting. Rev. F. M. Moore, of Bloomingburg, invoked the Divine blessing. Mrs. H. L. Stitt favored the audience with a splendid piano number.

Among the speakers who made short addresses in the absence of Hon. Washington Gardner, was Comrade Williams, of Higginsport, whose speech was very entertaining and full of interesting points. Among other things he stated that people were apparently too busy at the present time to be filled with the patriotism they should have. He spoke of the royal entertainment accorded by the citizens of Washington and praised them for the patriotic spirit manifested.

"Annie Laurie," sung by Miss Jessie Leavell, of Bloomingburg, was heartily applauded. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. L. Stitt on the piano and Mr. Kneisley on the violin.

Short talks from the comrades were enjoyed. A selection by the quartet, consisting of Miss Leavell, Mrs. Burgett and Messrs. Kibler and Bowman, was decidedly pleasing.

A SUCCESS

Washington has, in all probability, seen the last of the Grand Army of the Republic. It is not likely that the few remaining veterans of the Grandest Army which ever trod the earth's surface will again, as an organization, meet in this city.

The camp fires of the veterans have been lighted for the last time in the halls and churches of our city, but the last fluttering spark which fell from the dying embers of the camp fire Thursday night will leave a bright glow on the memory of the present generation which will endure forever.

Washington was glad to welcome again the gallant old soldiers to the city. She wanted to prove that the splendid treatment accorded the organization eight years ago could be duplicated; that it was a joy, not a duty, to do for the remnants of the mighty host.

Washington has convinced every visitor who came during the week that she can do and will do, that her people are loyal, grateful and appreciative.

The citizens rose superbly to the occasion and easily duplicated the splendid achievement of eight years ago.

Each and every old soldier who marched away carried with him an everlasting gratitude for Washington and her people.

Too much praise cannot be given to all who bore a hand in the work of the moment. To mention individuals entitled to praise for good work would mean to include the census roll of the city. To mention organizations specifically, would be to

Grand Jury Recommends That Sing Sing Be Abandoned.

White Plains, N. Y., June 20.—The June grand jury has finished the first part of their work of the investigation of Sing Sing prison and the conditions there, and returned a presentment to Justice A. S. Tompkins of the supreme court here, in which they recommend that the present Sing Sing state prison be abandoned and a new prison erected. There is no mention made in the presentment of the charges by George W. Blake, a special prisons investigator appointed by Governor Sulzer, which reflect on Warden J. S. Kennedy, and it is understood that this matter will be taken up by the grand jury.

The presentment deals only with the condition of the prison, and says: "At present vermin swarm in every corner of the cells, on the bedding and in the bedclothes. The housing capacity of the prison is 1,200. We find that during the last two years as many as 2,000 prisoners have been lodged in the prison at one time, and that the number of inmates has always ranged from 1,500 to 2,000. We learn that frequently men are coupled who are repugnant and dangerous to each other, and that this situation has not been changed even upon their request. We find that convicts in pronounced stages of tuberculosis are housed with men of perfect health."

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am doing and feeling fine. I heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Foley Kidney Pills do not contain habit forming drugs and are tonic in acting, quick in results. They will help any case of kidney trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. Blackmer & Tanquary.

Thomas Nelson Page, Pleasant A. Stovall and Walker W. Vick, Important Wilson Appointees.

Here are pictured three of President Wilson's latest important appointees. Thomas Nelson Page, the noted author of southern stories, who will go to Italy as ambassador, is shown in characteristic attitude on the right. He had been slated for ambassadorial appointment from the first. He is a Virginian and, like several other of the important Wilson appointees, is a literary man. Pleasant A. Stovall, publisher of the Savannah (Ga.) Press, who will be minister to Switzerland, is on the left. The other is Walker W. Vick of New Jersey, a lawyer, who was secretary of the Wilson Inaugural committee and very active during the presidential campaign. He gets the lucrative position of customs receiver at Santo Domingo.
